Athletes & Coaches

The influence and impact athletes & coaches have can be life changing

In the world of sports, athletes and coaches face many challenges. Our team focuses on serving both of these people groups. Due to the different experiences and backgrounds, the team is able to help them connect their sport experience with their faith while they grow in understanding their role. Current athletes have the opportunity to impact the next generation of athletes in the ways they train, speak, play and live their lives with their teammates. When a coach has a transformational mindset, they have the opportunity to capture the heart of the athlete to be his or her best.

Opportunities

- There is a significant disconnect from those involved in sports and the church.
- Athletes within their same sport meet to grow & encourage one another in the intersection of sport and faith.
- Coaches following Jesus can grow in their sport & faith and others can explore becoming a transformational coaching purpose.
